Une couverture faite en patchwork avec des bandanas

v14624

Le recto de cette couverture est fait à partir de moritfs de bandanas, lesquels sont placés en patchwork et cousus ensemble sur un sur un grand tissu uni.

Comment faire

1 Cut each bandana (12 in total) 1.5 cm from the edge of the patterned frame – all the way around.

2 Measure and cut a piece of polyester wadding to the same size for each bandana.

3 Attach these two parts to each other with pins and sew them together diagonally.

4 Assemble the 12 pieces according to your taste in 3 rows with 4 pieces in each. Attach the pieces together with pins along the top and bottom edges – outer side against other side. Sew the rows together side by side to make one large piece.

5 Cut a back piece from plain fabric in the same size as the quilted front. Place the two pieces together – outer side against outer side - and sew them together, leaving a small opening. Turn the quilt inside out through the small hole and sew the hole together with a needle and thread.
